'Terrific support' for ambulance

Folks in the East Jordan area think it's important to have first-rate ambulance service.

In fact, in the last five years civic groups, businesses and industries have contributed more than $10,000 to make their ambulance squad one of the best equipped in northern Michigan.

Ambulance Administrator Bernie Hammond won't go so far as saying East Jordan has THE best ambulance service of any town its size. "But I don't know of any in Northern Michigan that are better equipped than we are," he says.

"I think it's a combination of community support and the city council," Hammond said. "The city gives us terrific support, and community groups carry it one step further."

More than $4,000 in new equipment has just been donated in the past few weeks.

The latest acquisitions include two "anti-shock suits" and a cardioscope, which can take electro-cardiogram readings on suspected heart attack vic-

The cardioscope is the second one for the ambulance squad, which means there is one for each of the city's two ambulances. A number of different civic groups and businesses donated a total of $3,650 to buy the new cardio-scope. The newest machine has the added feature of a defibrillator, which can be used by physicians to provide an electric shock in severe heart attack cases.

"The thing we like about this new machine is that it's so easy to operate," Hammond said. Sensors are taped to the patient's chest and a video screen. The screen shows a trained ambulance squad member whether the heartbeat pattern is normal or whether there has been a heart attack.

Every two weeks or so, the ambulance squad is called to the home of someone suffering from severe chest pains. By using the cardioscope, the ambulance squad can tell whether the patient is having heart problems or something minor like indigestion.

These suits have been proved to be so helpful that they will be required in all ambulances as of July 1, 1979. Shock, Hammond says, is the most common problem ambulance squads encounter. The suit, which is like a pair of large bib

The suit, which is like a pair of large DID overalls, is put on a patient who is suffering from shock.

Shock is basically a loss of blood or blood pressure. The suit can apply pressure to specific parts of the body, the legs, for instance, to force blood to the vital organs in the trunk of the body. Hammond says the shock suits are Hammond says the shock suits are definitely going to be lifesavers. He recalls a fatal traffic accident this summer in which the victim probably could have been saved if the shock pants had been available.

Besides being one of the best equipped ambulance services, East Jordan also has one of the best educated squads.

Hammond is one of only 94 licensed emergency medical technicians (EMT's) in the state, and he is the only one in northern Michigan. He has taught classes for EMT's for the past five years at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

The East Jordan ambulance squad includes 10 men, and five others besides Hammond are in the process of becoming licensed EMT's. Reno Lane, Guy Vallance, Dick Barnett, Don Bowers and Howard Stanek have taken the written part of their tests and will soon be tested for practical application.

As of next July, state law requires that a licensed EMT must be in the patient compartment of any operating ambulance.

EMT training. Hammond said, is something like first aid, only much more involved. Besides providing advanced training for emergency treatment, and operating sophisticated equipment EMT's must learn specific medical technology. "That's the biggest part." Hammond said. "We've got to be able to communicate with physicians and nurses on their level."

Class to produce magazine

East Jordan area residents are encouraged to join a new Community Education class which will be spending the next several months writing stories and producing a local magazine.

The group will hold its first meeting at 9 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 21, at the Senior Center in East Jordan.

The Community Education class is called Feature Writing. It will be taught by Jim Baumann, general manager of the

A number of East Jordan civic groups, the bank and two industries donated a total of $3,650 to purchase a new electrocardiogram for the city's ambulance squad. In front, ambulance administrator Bernie Hammond demonstrates how the equipment is used by taking a heart reading on Ike Parsons. Looking on from left, are representatives of groups helping to purchase the machine: Ruth Vincent and Phyllis Malpass of the Bridge Club, Ernest Ross of the Rotary Club, Ginny Carey of Northwestern

State Bank. Walter Goebel of Gulf and Western. Pat Weisler of the American Legion, and Debbie Carey of the Chamber of Commerce. Parsons was representing the Jordan Valley Lions, and East Jordan Plastics also contributed money but was not represented in the picture. Ivan Mills, a heart patient who has been helped by the ambulance squad several times, also made a contribution. The new EKG machine has been in use since early July and has been used several times already, Hammond said.

Break for taxpayers

EAST JORDAN - Property owners here got some good news at Tuesday night's school board meeting: their school taxes for this year will be a bit lower than school officials had originally estimated.

Financial Director Ruby Dipzinski said that this year's State Aid Bill for schools contains a rollback formula that gives a financial break to school districts that assess more than 30 mills for schools. This

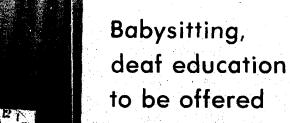

She said the legislature did not approve the rollback until late July, after the school board had set its millage request for this year. The total millage now will be 34.45, which includes operating funds and debt retirement on the buildings. This is .95 mills more than last year's total levy, a smaller increase than the 1.8 mill increase school officials thought would be necessary with new facilities this year.

Dipzinski said the owner of a home with a market value of $20,000, which would have an assessed valuation of $10,000, will be paying $18.50 less in property taxes than originally estimated.

Dipzinski acknowledged that school millages are a complicated issue and said anyone with questions can contact her at the school administration office.

In other action, the board heard a progress report on school construction from Mick Barney of Elzinga-Volkers, the construction management firm. Barney told the board that a shortage of electricians has delayed completion of vocational education shops in the new high school.

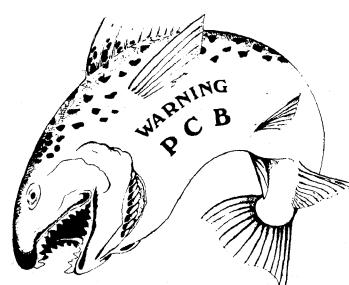

The East Jordan Recreation Department is lending a helping hand to babysitters and the hard of hearing.

A babysitting course certified by the American Red Cross will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning September 19 from 3 - 4:30 p.m.

Some of the topics covered will include how to entertain children and basic first aid. The course is for children in grades six through eight.

A clinic on communication with the deaf will be held on Mondays from September 8 to November 6 for grades six through eight and on Thursdays from September 21 to November 9 for grades three through five. The fee is $5. Register at City Hall by Friday, September 15.

it is coming from licensed fish outlets, and then into restaurants and grocery stores, but added that Indian fishing also contributes to the problem.

Indian fishermen, unlike other commercial fishermen, are allowed to sell any kind of fish to whoever they want. But as far as the health department is concerned, it doesn't matter where the fish come from. "We don't give a damn who catches them," Makulski said. "They just shouldn't be sold in commercial establishments."

Makulski said the Department of Agriculture is responsible for checking wholesale fish outlets, while his department inspects restaurants and other retail outlets. "Prior to this recent fishing activity the lake trout weren't on the market," he said. "It's been much more of a problem right now."

Makulski said the health department, which licenses restaurants and grocery stores, will be making more spot checks to crack down on the sale of contaminated fish. "If we find a restaurant serving it, they'll be cited," he said. "People assume that if they're eating out, the product they're eating is safe for everybody."

He said food establishments that continue to sell the fish after being warned could lose their licenses. "We've had a couple of calls from restaurants saying they're going to take it off the menu," he

One area restaurant manager said even when lake trout have been available, they haven't been a popular item, "People are leery of them, so we don't serve it much," the manager said.

The same manager said the last food distributor who offered lake trout said the fish no longer posed any danger. But Makulski says, "People need to know that the situation hasn't changed since last year."

He added that some fish, such as whitefish, don't pose any threat, because they feed off plants, not other fish. Most fish that now contain PCB got it in their systems by eating other fish that contained the chamical the chemical.

He also said fish taken from inland bodies of water, such as Walloon Lake, are safer than those from Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan. "I would assume that the levels would be much safer," Makulski said. "At this time, I would say the advisory doesn't apply there."

Makulski said PCB is used in transmission fluids, electric transformers, carbon paper and for many other industrial products. "A lot of transformers are leaky," he said. "When it rains, the leaky chemicals get into storm sewers that empty out into the lake."

"A lot of it has been dumped in the lake through careless handling. Then it ends up in the food chain, especially in the fatty tissue of the fishes."

Makulski says other chemicals can be used in place of PCB, and have been used since the state put a temporary ban on its sale.

He hopes the ban becomes permanent,
"It should never have been made in the first place," he said.

"I guess I just like old things," says Pat Sweet, proprietor of Yesterday's Treasurers.

Low enrollment hurts

BOYNE CITY . The school system's unexpectedly low enrollment this year will cost the district $34,752 in state aid, creating a shortage of contingency funds, according to Superintendent Rich Kelly.

Kelly told the school board Monday night that total enrollment will be approximately 1,426 this year, a decrease from last year's 1,540 and less than the predicted 1,500.

"We're just going to have to subtract it from our cash balance," Kelly said. He said he had planned on a cash belence of about $50,000 to use for unexpected emergency expenses, but now the school system will have to use more than half of that to make up for the smaller enrollment.

The state pays the schools $1.488 per student in state aid.

Kelly said, "It's dangerous to have a cash balance that low. you have nothing built in if something goes wrong during the school

He said expenses this year are especially difficult to estimate because new facilities have been opened. "How close are we on our estimates for the new facilities?" he asked. "Hopefully, we're really close."

Despite the squeeze, Kelly said he doesn't think any programs, either academic or extracurricular, will have to be eliminated. "I'm not looking at that right now," he said. "It's just going to take a general belt tightening."

How the belt will be tightened will be determined at the annual budget hearing, to be held Monday, October 16, in the high school cafeteria. The biggest drops came in this year's junior and senior classes. There are 132 juniors, down from 156 sophomores a year ago, and 113 seniors, down from last year's junior class

"Those are big, big drops," Kelly said. He said some students dropped out, but "We also had a lot of people move.

In other action at Monday's meeting, the school board sold three more portable classrooms. Todd Warner, an artist from Charlevoix, bought two of them for $3,300 each. Kelly said he plans to use them to expand his studio space.

The other portable went to John Gray of Vanderbilt for $1,725.

Five other portables were sold earlier to Fred Temple, who bought two, and Joe Hetler, who bought three

THERE WILL BE A PUBLIC HEARING ON FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1978, at 3:30 p.m. with the City Commission to hear views from the general public on the proposed Tannery Development and the vacation of Front Street.

The meeting will be held at the Boyne Theatre, 216 South Lake Street, Boyne City,

The meeting will begin at 3:30 p.m. with a presentation by the firm of Williams and Works outlining the findings of the engineering and impact study. After the presentation, citizens will be permitted and are encouraged to make comments concerning the report on the Tannery Development in general. The entire proceedings and all statements will be recorded by a court stenographer. Comments at the public hearing will be limited to five minutes so that each person wishing to speak will have an opportunity to do so. Also, to encourage greater input, citizens are requested to submit written statements. These statements will be accepted prior to, during and after the public hearing.

The engineering and impact report by Williams and Works will be available for review by the public on Wednesday, September 13, 1978 at the Office of the City Clerk at Boyne City Hall and the Boyne City Library during normal business hours. Citizens requesting a copy of the report will be required to pay a nominal fee to cover expenses.

Circuit Court Judge Breighner has requested that the public hearing be done in a manner which would facilitate the hearing be conducted and transcribed with a record similar to that which is done in a court. Furthermore, we obviously anticipate a large turn-out and we must furnish a location which can accommodate all the citizens who wish to attend.

With the conducting of a public hearing in such a large room, it also becomes mandatory that a loud-speaker system be employed. Use of the loud-speaker system will also insure order at the meeting in that one microphone will be provided for the public and the only person recognized to speak will be the person at the microphone.

The Boyne Theatre meets all of the specifications above. Alternate locations were reviewed but none were able to accommodate both the number of people and the loud-speaker system. The time was determined based upon allowing adequate time for all citizen comments to be heard. It is necessary that the hearing be concluded by 7:00 p.m. so that the theater may proceed with its normal operations at that time. Consequently, a public hearing time of 3:30 p.m. was set - again to insure that sufficient time would be permitted for a presentation by the consultants and questions and input from all those citizens who wish to be heard. The public is invited to attend.

LET'S TALK ABOUT THE TANNERY PROPERTY

WHO OWNS THE TANNERY PROPERTY?

It is privately owned by Detroit area businessmen who have no personal stake in Boyne

WHAT IS THE "TANNERY PROJECT"?

The Tannery is a 55-acre project. Plans call for a gradual development of 250 residential condominiums. Their completed value is estimated at between $14 million and $18 million. The developers will give a 750-foot beach, or more than four acres, for public use. Front Street, which divides the property, will be closed between Second and Division Streets.

IF FRONT STREET IS NOT CLOSED, WHAT HAPPENS TO THE TANNERY PROJECT?

It will be dropped. Lake Associates, Boyne City developers will not buy the Tannery

WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO THE PROPERTY THEN?

It is zoned COMMERCIAL, and the present owners will CONTINUE to try to sell it. COMMERCIAL ZONING permits restaurants, drive-in movies, bowling alleys, warehouses, fast food restaurants, etc.

IF FRONT STREET IS CLOSED, HOW WILL EMERGENCY VEHICLES REACH AREAS SOUTH OF THE CITY?

> An emergency route through the project is planned by the developers. This could be used by all vehicles if Division Street is blocked.

CAN NEIGHBORING STREETS HANDLE ADDITIONAL TRAFFIC IF FRONT STREET IS CLOSED?

A study to determine this is presently underway.

WILL WE LOSE OUR BEACH?

NO. Boyne City, on the shores of one of Michigan's most beautiful lakes, has no public bathing beach. We will gain a beach. The project's plans include a beach of more than four acres for public use. If the Tannery Project fails, so would the proposed beach project.

HOW WILL THE PROPOSED BEACH COMPARE WITH THE ONE AT WHITING PARK?

> Whiting Park has 470 feet of lakefront. The proposed Tannery beach has 750 feet, with parking planned for at least 49 cars. Whiting County Park has parking for 57 cars.

HOW WILL CHILDREN GET TO THE BEACH?

Walkways and bicycle paths are planned through the project.

WHAT AFFECT WILL THE DEVELOPMENT HAVE ON OUR SCHOOLS AND THE COST OF COMMUNITY SERVICES?

> Our city will gain approximately $350,000 in taxes annually. No increase in school enrollment is expected. The Landings, a 56-unit project within the city, has not increased school enrollment. It provides $85,000 in annual taxes.

Interestingly, the sewage treatment plant was designed to serve a considerably larger development on this site than is now proposed.

The privately-owned Tannery property will not sit idle much longer.

SOME KIND OF DEVELOPMENT WILL HAPPEN . . . AND SOON

BY SANDY VANSTEENKISTE EAST JORDAN - Yesterday's Treasures could be someone's pleasures after visiting the antique and furniture refinishing shop on Main Street. Proprietors Pat and Jerry Sweet decided to establish Yesterday's Treasures when they realized the need for such a shop in the East Jordan area. And Pat claims they are as busy as they could want

"It's a story in itself," Pat said as to how she got started in the antique and refinishing business. "I guess I just like old things," she said. "I started collecting old China dolls, going to garage sales and picking up things that were of interest to me. Some of the things I bought, I fixed up and resold at flea markets," Pat said. 'And people became very interested in many of the things.'

Pat then decided to look into refinishing companies and found Amity. Amity is a company that deals in wood furniture stripping and refinishing products. The company was able to supply Pat with everything she needed.

Thus began the Sweets' business when they opened their shop below the Michigan Snowmobiler, the only available space in East Jordan. The shop had previously been a barbershop which the Sweets remodeled. "It suited our needs well," Pat said.

Pat said that besides buying and selling antiques, they work with mostly wood and some metal products, refinishing them to restore their natural beauty.
"Wood is at a premium," Pat said,

"and it's worth the investment to restore an old piece of wood because a new piece just doesn't have the same value."

Pat said that before she and her husband got into the business they played with the idea for a few years. In the meantime. Pat did an awful lot of reading to keep up with the techniques of restoring antiques. She said she read every spare moment she had and did a lot of research upon the subject, too.

Their son Brian has become a third partner in the business which he claims he was "recruited".

The process they go through depends on the individual piece. If it's just a varnished piece with no paint, they put it into a hot tank for 10 to 15 seconds to loosen the old varnish. Next they put it in the spray booth to rinse off any excess varnish. Then to the nature tone tank where it restores the natural color to the wood.

If some pieces are heavily painted, eight to 10 layers, it's put into a cold tank for five to 15 minutes to remove all paint. The remaining process follows the same as a varnished piece.

If a piece needs repair work, the Sweets take care of that too. All repairs are done before anything goes into the hot or cold

The price of each piece varies with the lines in the wood. If it's a straight lined varnished chair, Pat said it would probably run about $8. Anything painted usually runs about $10. Very ornate or fancy chairs may run anywhere from $12 to $15 and up.

Pat said they strip and refinish anything from antiques to oak toilet seats, dental cabinets, old beds and even dip metal, such as a cover piece to an airplane motor.

"For a small town like East Jordan." Pat said, "we get people from all over who visit the shop. There's been people from Ohio, Illinois and even Pennsylvania. From this area, people have come from Harbor Springs, Bay View, east of Gaylord, as far south as Kalkaska, as far north as Brutus and even Pellston," Pat said. "And of course there are the local people.

Pat said that she has noticed more young people interested in the antique and refinishing business. "The cost is appealing and at auctions they can get things cheap," she said. "After remodeling it, they have a fine antique."

The hardest part for Pat she said, was buying to resell, because many times she wants to keep the things she finds for herself. She said that once you start working around antiques, "it just gets into

The Sweet's business is at the point where people are calling them and asking if they might be interested in certain pieces. Which makes it nice for Pat, since her opportunities for going out and looking for new items has been limited. That, she said is the only problem with her Originally Jerry Sweet is from East Jordan. In 1955 Pat moved from Ohio to Michigan where they met, married and moved to Midland. Then they went to Utica and ended up back in East Jordan. The Sweets have been here since 1961.

Jerry is presently working full time at Northern Michigan Electric Co-op as a maintenance and repair man. Pat's main occupation is to run Yesterday's Treasures.

Besides their partner and son, Brian, the Sweets also have another son and one daughter.

Boyne's better off with Front St. closed

Should Front Street be closed? It's a very difficult decision. No matter what the Boyne City Commissioners decide, they will be taking a serious risk regarding the city's future. If they refuse to close the street for the Tannery condominium development, it's possible that the lakefront property will be used for some other, less attractive type of development.

Editorial

If they do close the street, they are counting on Lake Associates to have the integrity and financial know-how needed to make the property into something that will benefit the entire city, not just the owners' pocketbooks.

It's a risk we think they should take. We feel the future of Boyne City would be best served by the condominium development proposed by Lake Associates. That development necessitates the closing of Front Street.

There are many reasons, both practical and emotional, to keep the street open, even if it means scrapping Lake Associates' plan. But the developers have responded to many of the practical objections in a satisfactory fashion. They have altered their plans to include an access road for emergencies and they have agreed to provide a pathway through the project for bicyclists and pedestrians to get to the public beach they have offered to the city. Both of these concessions are the direct result of the long hours of research put in by those who have opposed the street closing. Even if they lose "the war" when the commission makes its decisions, they have won some important battles.

We have listened to both sides of this issue very carefully and have devoted a considerable amount of newspaper space to let everyone have his viewpoint brought before the public. The opponents say they aren't against the condominium project, just the road closing. But we believe Rick and Dave Smith and Jon Gerster of Lake Associates are correct when they say the project simply won't work with a busy road going through it.

All over the country, the condominium projects which have been successful have been those that offer the most in facilities and scenery. The condos that fail are often the ones built on busy roads or away from a naturally attractive setting. The last thing Boyne needs is a large, unsuccessful condominium project on the tannery

Not many people are going to buy condomiums that have a road separating them from the water. People come north to get away from roads, not to stare at them in between glances of a lake. A pedestrian ramp over the street would be unattractive and pose a safety hazard to youngsters who would still cross the street to get to the beach.

Yes, it is at present quite an attractive view, much nicer than when the tannery buildings stood on the property. Especially at night, Front Street is a pretty drive. But a closer look at the property shows that it is not being used as attractively as it could be. A few homes have spectacular views of Lake Charlevoix, but when you go down to the shore you find rocks and old beer cans along most of the beach. Most cities built on beautiful lakes have public beaches so the residents can swim in the water as well as look at it.

Maybe it would be nice if the property could be left as it is today. But it cannot. It is for sale, and it is zoned for commercial use. The developers have pointed out the worst possible alternatives to their proposal, citing such possibilities as car lots or warehouses. The high cost of the property would probably make such uses uneconomical, just as they make single family homes a questionable risk.

But the land could be platted into smaller lots and sold off bit by bit, with a hodge-podge of businesses going into operation. This would be a waste of the property and would also hurt the downtown business district, which local merchants have worked hard to make attractive. We believe the Smiths' project would be as pleasing to the eye as a housing development can be.

There is no doubt that closing Front Street would increase traffic on Division and Second Streets. But the city commission has to determine what would be best for the entire town, not just the residents of a few streets, and act accordingly.

The city doesn't own any right of way on either side of Front Street, which in many spots is crumbling away at the edges. If the street isn't closed, it will someday have to be repaired, a project that would prove extremely costly to the city if additional land on each side of the road must be purchased.

At a time when Boyne City residents feel their financial pinch is serious enough to vote down school millages, the economic benefits of the tannery project are obvious. The city would naturally have to expand its services somewhat to accommodate the new residents, but they would more than pay for themselves in

This revenue could be used by the city for some of the other improvements Boyne needs, such as better streets and sewers. The condominium owners would be mostly seasonal residents, who would pay school and city taxes, but would not use the schools or other services most of the time. It would be a good deal for the yearround residents.

When considering a project of this magnitude, the people behind it are as important as the plans they put down on paper. Many naturally beautiful areas of this country have been ecologically raped by developers motivated solely by greed, people with no sense of community pride.

But Rick and Dave Smith and Jon Gerster have shown they do care about the environment. Their Wildwood on Walloon project is a model of good land use. They're smart enough to realize that overdevelopment would eventually repel people the development initally sought to attract.

But real estate developers, even ones with local ties, tend to come and go. Everything is for sale at the right price, and it is possible that some other group may eventually assume control of the project. This is one of the reasons the city must proceed with extreme care as they enter negotiations regarding a project that is huge by local standards.

The city must have carefully written. precise legal guarantees that the developers will do as they say and won't alter their plans after getting city approval. Handshakes and verbal agreements aren't good enough here. What is needed is a written agreement containing stiff legal sanctions if the city should feel the development takes a turn that won't benefit the majority of its

The closing of Front Street would only be the first step in the process of approving the entire project. The commission's approval of the closing won't mean the developers can do whatever they want. The Planning Commission should take a hard look at what Lake Associates has proposed for the property. Are six-story buildings appropriate in a city where nothing currently is more than three floors high? Can the traffic problems be solved? What about water pollution, particularly from the proposed marina?

These are just some of the questions that need to be further explored by city officials and this newspaper before the project begins. But the first step needed is approval of the abandonment of Front Street. Then everyone who is interested in Boyne City's future can take a closer look

The Boyne City Commission will decide next week whether to close Front Street, at left, in order to make way for a condominium development. If the street is closed, traffic would be channeled along

Serve, don't rule

Elected officials govern with the authority granted to them by the voting public. Therefore, it would seem reasonable that elected officials should seek to SERVE the wishes of the majority, rather than RULE the majority.

The proposed closing of Front Street is of major concern to the Boyne City taxpaving electorate, first, because it is their property, second, because it is the main artery carrying traffic from Charlevoix, by way of the Ferry, the resort area, East Jordan, Advance, Marshall and Anderson Roads, as well as emergency traffic such as ambulance and fire equipment. Therefore; this matter concerns the welfare and safety of every citizen in the

The fact that the voters elected five city commissioners does not give these commissioners the right to run the city in a dictatorial manner. The city commissioners are human beings and mutually share with all other human beings the same frailty of possible error in judgment. Therefore, we respectfully suggest since the commissioners claim the sovereign right to vote on the closing of Front Street, that they be guided by the now 1,367 signers opposing the closing of Front Street.

Since, insofar as the taxpaying citizen has to assume the burden of paying the cost of government, it would seem just and reasonable that said citizen should be entitled to exert a reasonable guiding hand on the reins of his government at all times, not only at election time.

Therefore, I am urging all citizens to assume your civic responsibility and duty and be present at the coming open meeting Friday, September 15th at 3:30 p.m. in the Boyne Theatre.

Look at the law

Editor.

While Section 2.3, Entitled Further Definition of Powers of the Boyne City Charter, speaks of the Powers of the City Commission, Section 7.12 Entitled Enactment, Amendment, and Repeal of Ordinances speaks specifically to the procedure to be used in abandoning a street, which is presently before the City Commission and the tax paying electorate of Boyne City.

Section 7.12 reads as follows: Ordinances may be enacted, amended, or repealed by the affirmative vote of not less than three commissioners subject to the limitations of Section 7.13. Unless by affirmative vote of four Commissioners no office shall be created or abolished: no special tax assessment be imposed; no street, alley or public ground be vacated; no real estate or any interest therein be sold or disposed of; no private property be taken for public use; nor any vote of the Commission be reconsidered or rescinded at a special meeting; nor any money appropriated except as otherwise provided by this Charter. Why the Commission chose the Resolution approach, which does not provide citizen redress via a referendum petition, and passed over the specified ordinance procedure outlined in Section 7.12 of the City Charter, which does provide for citizen redress via a referendum petition, remains a moot question, which only the commissioners can answer.

During my tenure of office as commissioner the commission voted to place on the ballot three questions, which were of considerable concern to the electorate. (A) The sidewalk from the high school to downtown, (B) The site of the senior citizens housing and (C) The fluoride issue. The commissioners felt that the precautionary procedure.

If the right of referendum is denied to the citizens I am sure the City Commission will be agonizing over their decision and I hope they will project their vision down the road a few years and visualize Front Street - or this city without Front Street.

Times change

Editor.

Never in the history of Boyne City has the town ever looked better, had better public facilities, been run better or had a brighter future.

We have always had a certain number of merchants and business people who, after retiring, think they are the ones who best know how things should be done and are against any development that willchange the image of "their" town

It is time for them to let go and let a younger generation take over, even as they themselves did so many years ago. These younger people will turn out to be as protective of "their" town and love it as much as our present crop of caretakers do.

Boyne will continue to flourish and be a good town in spite of those who resist development and fear change, long after Jimmy has carted them up the hill.

We could build a wall around the tannery property and seal it off entirely and the town would still flourish, would still have more traffic, the school buses would still have to make more stops, the police and firemen would still have to figure out how best to serve the people

I for one have not heard one valid argument to keep Front Street open. The benefits to be gained so outweigh any argument to keep it open that there is no contest. So I say to you protesters, who have done very well in "our" town indeed, take off your blinders and take the wider view. Remember how the old furnace site looked before the developers took over? The new developers will leave their mark, do their protesting and finally be toted up the hill even as you and I.

Wastefulness

My remarks are directed to the Boyne City Board of Education. They say they want input about the school situation.

They could do us all a favor by finding ways to cut expenses and waste. Here is one suggestion. Get rid of two full-time nurses in Boyne City. You may be interested in knowing that Petoskey, which has a much bigger enrollment, is cared for by a Health Dept. nurse who visits a certain day of the week. Charlevoix has one nurse who works four hours each day, dividing her time between 3 schools. What justification does Boyne City have for two full-time nurses in these cost saving times? In the Boyne City High School one is lucky to find the nurse in. She comes and goes as she pleases. The public should look into this situation and demand a change.

John Howard Boyne City

Count me in Editor,

Seems that the head that sticks up the highest gets shot at, but then again if you want to stand out among the crowd you must stand up and be counted and Boyne City is about to be counted, "counted in' "counted out".

As developement comes north, and it surely is moving north, it will first come to those who actively seek it; secondly to those areas that do not discourage good development and lastly will avoid altogether those areas that discourage or hinder growth.

The tannery project brings Boyne City to this crossroads and the decision reached now will effect Boyne City for many years to come. Acceptance of the tannery proposal will be Boyne City saying 'Count me in'. Count me in the growth picture, but count on controlled growth, well researched, well designed, well funded and if the developer is a local one, so much the better.

Denial of the tannery project would discourage growth of any kind within Boyne City. We wouldn't have to worry about controlled growth as there would be none to control, and as the surrounding areas grew, gained tax base and jobs, Boyne City would be taking a back seat by saying "Count me out".

I sincerely believe that the actions taken during the next two weeks will determine Boyne City's future for the next ten years, either as a leader or as a follower. As for me, I hope Boyne City votes to "Count me

Norman Naimark of Detroit, the first purchaser and prospective developer of the tannery condo project, in 1970, planned to request the closure of Front Street, as well as constructing an alternate traffic route through the property.

Engineering studies disclosed that development costs for such a small parcel prohibitive, approximately $250,000.

They have more than quadrupled since. Mr. Naimark bailed out, Mr. Garber and Mr. Stewart, the last reported owners of the property, apparently are now bailing out too.

In closing Front Street all residents of Boyne face the prospect of providing alternate traffic route improvements. Upgrading Division and Second streets may run into thousands in immediate tax investment. There are no guarantees from the Smith brothers. developers, as to when their $250,000 to $350,000 tax windfall will aid our suffering wallets. The $85,000 from the "Landings Condominiums" hasn't halted the steadily escalating city tax bill.

It's my belief that further study (not by Williams and Works, who have an obvious conflict of interest since they have almost exclusively been handling the city's engineering problems) but by a firm of development specialists might turn up the fact that the city might be able to buy the entire property for a price not too excessive compared to the amount required to improve traffic systems.

The city could then resell that portion lying south of Front Street and retain the entire beach from the disposal plant to Front and Division streets. Further, the city could control developments with firm convenants to future buyers.

Thus, instead of backing a dinky Boyne beach, those people favoring a recreation area could wear buttons saying "Back Big Boyne Beach.

But remember, the city will lose tax revenues from the present owners (the property is assessed at $476,000). That will be offset by increased property values once the uncertainty of Front Street's future is settled.

It should also be remembered that electors may disrupt the state's entire tax system when they go to the polls in November to vote on Michigan's equivalent of Proposition 13.

So, in summary, it's my contention that the City Commission as well as every party concerned (that's all of us) should hesitate over the Front Street closure.

Why support a dinky beach when further study might disclose that a big Boyne beach is financially feasable?

"PARTICIPATING PHYSICIANS"

PWP lends a helping hand

BY SANDY VANSTEENKISTE It is reliably estimated that four of every 10 marriages during the 1970's will end in a formal divorce

A stable death rate plus increasing numbers of desertions also contribute to the rising incidence of terminated marriages.

The mid-1970's found approximately 12 million U.S. and Canadian men and women as single parents. Over 8.5 million children are being raised in a single parent environment.

These are facts compiled by Parents Without Partners (PWP), the world's largest single parent organization.

Single parents and their children are more than mere statistics to PWP international. Whether parents have custody of their children or not, they are deeply concerned with their future and with their responsibilities as a parent. Single parents and their children have special needs, and PWP International recognizes and aids in meeting those needs.

It all started back in the year 1958 in the state of New York when two people got together and decided that there was a need for such a group which could acpartners.

One such member of PWP group in Petoskey is Gloria Boris of Lake Street in Boyne City.

When some of Gloria's friends heard she was getting a divorce back in January, they suggested she attend a PWP meeting. They said the group would be able to comfort and deal with her own problems.

"I realized other people were in the same situation as me and so I could relate to them and them to me," Boris said. "After a while I felt I could call and talk to anyone at anytime, because I knew people were willing to help out.

"Because others were in the same situation, I found friends who could not only symphathize," Boris said, "but emphathize as well."

Boris feels that the meetings are really nothing special but the outings that the group plans are great. Since she has children of her own she enjoys the fact that they can participate in PWP outings and get to talk with other children too.

Being the secretary of the PWP chapter in Petoskey, Boris said she would really recommend the group to anyone because it gave her the confidence she needed.

Sally McGeorge, 30, of Charlevoix, is the president of the Northern Area Parents Without Partners.

The only requirement to belong, she said, is that you are the parent of one or more living children. You must also be single by reason of death, divorce, separation or never married. Custody of

So what does a group like this do? McGeorge said that there must be at least 25 people to make up a chapter. General meetings are held each second and fourth Wednesday of the month at North Central Michigan College staff room at 1515 Howard St. in Petoskey. When these people get together, they sit and talk and try to help each other out with any problems. The reason for these meetings, McGeorge said, is to serve as "an eye-opener."

"The meetings allow for people to get together and discover that they are not the only ones hurting," McGeorge said. "It lets them experience others' hurt and to realize that other people in their position have the same problems and feelings too."

Besides conversing with fellow members, there is usually a guest speaker at each meeting covering pertinent topics. One time they had Dan Osmer, a friend of the court, come and talk about family courts, alimony, child support and involving oneself in counseling before and-or after marriage. There have also been ministers, lawyers and counselors to head various meetings and aid the parents without partners in any questions.

After the meetings, members usually go out together for a drink or dancing.

"The purpose is to bring up our children in normal adulthood," McGeorge said. "We focus on children and the single parent, working with kids and trying to help out. There are activities set up for the kids too, for example retreats and camping and roller skating," McGeorge said. "We are just trying to bring up our kids in Interaction among new members at first is always difficult. "They realize that it's going to be pure hell at first, coming to a meeting alone," McGeorge explains. "But PWP tries to establish individuality. We try to get together in people's homes sometimes and have rap sessions, bringing things out into the light separating things like loneliness and aloneness.

Dues are $14 a year, which include dues to PWP International, chapter dues, and Wolverine Regional Council, which includes chapters in Big Rapids, Traverse City, Gaylord, Alpena, Houghton Lake and Petoskey. It also includes a subscription to the Single Parent magazine, which is usually published monthly and The Sunshine News, which is the Petoskey chapter's pamphlet-newsletter.

If anyone is interested in joining Parents Without Partners, the people to contact are: PETOSKEY - Judy Hickman (347-1041), BOYNE CITY - Shirley Howard (582-7468) and CHARLEVOIX - Sally McGeorge (547-2400)

Needless to say, members of PWP do get married and sometimes to each other. About the middle of August Margaret Powers and Dick Barkley were married at the Methodist Church in Boyne Falls. And Gloria Boris and Bill Clink have a December wedding planned.

On Friday, Sept. 16, PWP is holding a "Fall Fling Dance" at the Dilworth Hotel in Boyne City. Music will be by Al Anderson. The happering begins at 9:00

There went the bride

As you may have noticed, I have a new byline. There is good reason for it, of course. On September 9, Neal Colburn and I were married.

It was not a typical wedding and would not have been nearly as beautiful without the help of many good friends and several understanding people in East Jordan.

Hazel Colburn

Somewhere around Thursday, I realized that Saturday was getting close and many last minute plans had to be taken care of. Late Thursday afternoon I found out there was no wedding cake.

As everyone knows, you just can't have a wedding without a wedding cake. I made a frantic phone call to Thelma McKinnon and explained our predicament. She kindly agreed to have a three tier wedding cake ready by Saturday afternoon.

Ginger Jackson spent Friday arranging wildflowers and fall flowers from my mother's garden into the most beautiful bouquets I had ever seen, while Linda Hergt and I took care of last minute food preparations.

At 3:30 p.m. Friday afternoon, I took Neal's shirt to the cleaners and explained to the Hilts that the shirt was needed for the next day. They had it ready by 5:30 that afternoon.

As you've probably noticed, I have a penchant for doing things at the last

About 20 minutes before the wedding the top of the wedding cake, which was decorated with fresh flowers, got bumped and slid, damaging some of the frosting. Sean Ryan, who was to sing at the wedding, and Linda Gergt came to the rescue by "finding" some flowers to match; and the cake was repaired.

Folding chairs had been set up on the main lawn at the Hergt's along with a couch and chair to be used for the Lakeside Player's production of Anton Chekov's "The Marriage Proposal." George Secord mentioned to us later that when he came he thought we were being married by a psychiatrist.

We were married beneath a large, old maple tree by magistrate Pat Conkle. Sean Ryan sang, the sun shone, and many dear friends and family gathered around us. It was like a fairy tale.

That night Dr. and Mrs. Hergt; the best man, Jack Graham; Neal's brother, Patrick: and Neal and I went to Duffy's in Harbor Springs. We went there for a reason, of course: to throw Sean Ryan the garter. He claims to be a confirmed bachelor and says he always manages to escape from weddings before the garter is tossed.

It's fate, Sean: only a matter of time

So here I sit, typewriter in hand, having my column "edited" by my new husband, a former English major. Couldn't he have taken French instead?

Wed in outdoor ceremony

 $EAST\ JORDAN$  - The home of Dr. Klaus and Linda Hergt on Winter Street was the site of the Saturday, September 9 wedding of Neal Colburn and Hazel Blair of East Jordan.

The outside ceremony was performed by Magistrate Patricia Conkle. The bride, a native of East Jordan, is the daughter of Maurice and Eva Hartung.

Jack Graham of East Lansing was the best man, and the matter of home has I Kate Schafer of Boyne City. Groomsman was Patrick Colburn of Detroit, the groom's brother.

Following the ceremony in a meadow outside the Hergt's home, a play by Anton Chekov, "The Marriage Proposal," was presented. The play was performed by the Lakeside Players, Boyne City theatrical troupe that Neal Colburn helped direct. An outdoor reception was held, with food prepared by Ginger Jackson of Ryan of Petoskey.

The bride wore a simple white peasant gown and carried an assortment of wild

Boyne City. Music was provided by Sean and garden flowers, arranged by Ginger lackson. The couple plan a short wedding trip to Beaver Island. They will reside on Milton Street. The bride is a freelance artist and a columnist for the Charlevoix County

Press. The groom is the administrator of the East Jordan Family Health Center.

A permit was issued to the Presbyterian Church for a fireworks display at Elm Point Sunday September 10th; permission was granted to the East Jordan Youth Group (Muscular Dystrophy committee) to hold a 24 hour dance Marathon on Sept. 22nd & 23rd at the Tourist Park; and Herman Rasch & Fern Morris were named as delegate and alternate to the Retirement System annual meeting on Sept.

The CCER presented a group of signatures and requested a public hearing regarding the amendment to Ordinance 124 which was adopted by Council August 15th. No hearing was planned. Jerry LeDuc requested some relief from the noisy groups who congregate on the corner of Main & Mill between 2:30 & 5 A.M. and the subject of City garbage pickup was discussed. No action was taken.

Youth bowling to start

EAST JORDAN - A youth bowling league for youngsters from second grade through high school is being formed by the East Jordan Recreation Department. Registration for second and third graders will be held Saturday, September 16, at 1 p.m. Fourth and fifth graders will register the same time. Parents must accompany these youngsters.

Middle school registration will be September 16 at 10:30 a.m. High school registration is at 1 p.m. All registration will be at Gemini Lanes.

on the 11 yd. line with just a minute left in the game, added up to a 12-7 East Jordan victory in the football season opener for both teams last Friday.

East Jordan coach Frank Holes admitted he was awfully nervous in the closing minutes of the game.

The Red Devils held a 12-7 lead with three minutes to play when they punted and Boyne took over at their own 31 yd.

The Ramblers quickly drove deep into Red Devil territory on a 20 yd. pass to Dean Hicks, two penalties and two eight yd. runs by Ray Greene.

Boyne's hopes were dashed, however, when a handoff was dropped at the 11 yd. line. East Jordan senior Dennis Parsons recovered the fumble.

'They had some momentum going, Holes said. "They were moving the ball well. I looked at Coach (Jim) Wodzinski and he told me, 'It's going to take a turnover. That's the only thing that's going to stop them.' "

Wodzinski was right.

Holes credited the victory to good defense and good team discipline.

"Our practices are very boring," he said. "We stay with basic plays and try to control the ball. To do that, we have to eliminate the little mistakes like offsides penalties."

And Holes, coaching in his first game for East Jordan, stuck to his plan. There were no fancy plays, few passes and few penalties.

He said his players "played excellent defense" throughout the game. "They bent but they didn't break," he said.

Holes said another factor in the victory was that his players were in good shape. "All the running we did in practice paid off. If you're in shape, it prevents injuries, and we didn't really have any in the Boyne City Coach McCullough was, of course, unhappy about his team's fumbles. But he said he's not going to harp on those mistakes at practice. He'd rather let his players forget their opening game butterfingers as soon as possible

"They can handle the ball. They just had a bad night. If you keep harping about it, they get wooden fingers. McCullough said East Jordan played thought we played well too, after we had a chance to adjust. We didn't know what to expect from them.

East Jordan started the game's scoring early as Boyne fumbled in the first two minutes of the game. Red Devil Doug Gilkerson recovered at Boyne's 25 yd.

A few plays later 155-pound halfback Dan Crick sprinted 13 yards around right end for the touchdown. The extra point run failed.

Jerry Zoulek recovered another fumble for East Jordan in the middle of the third period at the East Jordan 45 yd. line.

Nine plays and a 15 yd. penalty later, quarterback Duane Cutler plunged over the goal line from one yard out to give East Jordan a 12-0 lead with 20 seconds

Boyne drove 75 yards to score on the next series of downs. Pat Anzell got the touchdown, taking a pitchout 28 yds. around the right end with 8:26 left in the game. His brother Mike kicked the extra Leading ground gainers for East Jordan were Crick with 100 yards in 22 carries, Dan V. Spence with 55 yards and Denny LaPeer with 35 yards.

Leading Red Devil tacklers were Gilkerson, Kevin Thomas and Parsons. This Friday, Boyne travels to Tawas City for a non-conference contest. Tawas won its opener 13-7 over Sanford-Meridian, rolling up 380 yards on the McCullough is happy that, even after the loss, local folks have raised money for the long trip, making it possible for the team to spend the night in Tawas rather than driving until 4 a.m. to get home.

East Jordan plays its first home game Friday, hosting another neighborhood foe, Ellsworth.

Ellsworth tied Bretheran 8-8 last week, but Holes said "They're going to come over here real hungry. They'll have a chance to knock off a bigger school. They'll be fired up, and our kids will be coming down off a big win. We've got to watch out for them.

A non-conference soccer match between Boyne City and Harbor Springs this Sunday resulted in a tied game, both teams scoring two goals.

There was no score in the first half, though Boyne City made two or three good attempts on goal.

In the seventh minute of the second half Boyne forward John Nagle made a determined run on goal, but the ball was deflected by McVicker. Harbor Springs made the first goal in the 21st minute, but four minutes later a beautiful goal by Nagle gave Boyne the equalizer. ### Boyne runners ready

BY GRACE MOOSE STUDENT REPORTER

BOYNE CITY - Despite the failure to pass the millage, the Boyne City cross ountry team is looking forward to the new season. Coach Bob Wollenberg said. We were afraid there wasn't going to be a team because of the millage. But," he continued, "the team is all fired up and ery enthusiastic."

School officials had feared that the millage defeats would force the cancelation of most sports, but unexpected additional funding from several sources saved the day.

Practice started for the runners in late August. "This is the first time anyone has gotten the team together before school started," stated Wollenberg. He gives the credit to returning juniors Tom Pluister and Clark McGeorge for getting practice started early.

A few of the runners had been practicing during the summer, but for most the first few practices were rough. The team started out running three to five miles each practice, but are increasing their distance rapidly. "We're going to be running very long distances to get into shape, ten to 15 miles," commented Pluister.

Last year Pluister was the first member of the team to win a medal and also the only one to go on to state finals. "My ultimate goal will be to win conference, regionals, and state finals," he said, "I'm going to push it now in my junior year I'm not going to wait until I'm a senior to try

He feels Petoskey will be the hardes team to beat, "They have some good returners and an overall strong team. Charlevoix will be tough, but not too Team captain Clark McGeorge said, "I'm looking forward to being the number two runner for the team this year. My main competitor is my own brother, Brian. John Cunningham is going to be tough too.'

"Charlevoix should be the toughest They had a lot of junior state finalists last year. They're seniors now and they're going to shoot really hard to be the best,' said McGeorge.

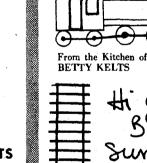

John Cumhinghame of Shelier, just recently joined the team. Cunningham. who usually plays football in the fall, has been running a long time. "I enjoy running and decided to switch from football. I've never run track or cross country before," he concluded.

This years' team consists mainly of returners with only three newcomers so far. They are a young team, with no seniors. Junior returners include Pluister, McGeorge, Jeff Snyder, and Bruce Moose. Jim Chandler and Brian McGeorge are returning sophomores Cunningham and sophomores Peggv Roisen and Tim Crumbaugh are the newest members of the team. Bill Holland s team manager.

It's a small team, but they hope to grov now that school is started. They are practicing every day after school and have their first meet September 19 against Grayling and Rogers City at Grayling.

Decision near on Front St. closing closed for the proposed development of 250 condominium units on the former tannery property? Local residents should have an answer soon.

The City Commission will hold a special meeting, Tuesday, September 19 at 5:00 p.m. in the Top O'Michigan Electric Co. auditorium to decide whether the street should be closed. If the commission votes yes, the issue must also be decided by Circuit Court Judge Martin Breighner, who has scheduled a hearing for Thursday, September 21.

When making their decisions, the judge and the commission will have the benefit of what is expected to be extensive public opinion offered at a public hearing Friday, September 15, at 3:30 p.m. in the Boyne Theatre. Joe Gierlach, the theater owner, also a commission member.

The condominiums proposed by Rick and Dave Smith and Jon Gerster would take up approximately 55 acres of the lakefront property once occupied by Howe's Tannery. The Smiths and Gerster say the project can't succeed financially unless the road, which divides the property, is closed.

In recent weeks, citizens on both sides of the issue have become increasingly organized. The opponents of the road closing say they have gotten over 1,300 signatures on a petition. But another group, comprised mainly by downtown businessmen, are conducting a campaign in favor of the project.

In addition to comments from residents, the commission also has the recently complete impact analysis prepared by Williams and Works, an engineering firm from Grand Rapids. The study doesn't draw a specific conclusion about whether the road should be closed or whether the project should be built, but makes projections as to how various uses of the property would effect different city ser-

A traffic count taken for the study shows a daily average of 2,421 vehicles on Front Street, 872 on Division and 2,948 on Lake Street. It predicts that development of the condominium project, which includes a marina and restaurant, would raise traffic to 3,200 vehicles per day, with peak hour volume of 340

The study says that commercial development, for which the property is more traffic than the condominiums. But the condominiums would have a greater immediate effect, since the closing of Front Street would be one of the initial steps, while commercial development would take many years.

"Front Street is in fair condition," the study says. "Throughout its length it exhibits evidence of base failure. Reconstruction of the existing alignment will be required within approximately five years to prevent complete loss of the pavement." The study says Second Street is in "good condition" and describes Division as "excellent."

The study says the closing of Front Street, with more traffic going on Division and Lake Streets, would have some effect on residents in those areas. "This would result in noticeably higher traffic noise, although it would not be of a standard level to be considered objectionable.

'Increased traffic noise and air pollutants adjacent to the street are not expected to be a significant problem. However, the relocation alternates would tend to result in higher noise and air pollutants at the proposed street right-ofway than would develop with the existing street pattern.

The study says that if the condos are built, a new well and a large water main will be needed. It concludes that the present water system will be adequate.

Lake Associates had Bill Mercer. former county planner, do an impact study last winter. In it he predicted the project would increase local tax revenues by $350,000. Williams and Works agreed, but pointed out that the total increase wouldn't come until the project's completion, which is predicted to take five to 10 years.

The study says the city would get an addition $36,750 in new tax money in the project's first year, following the construction of the marina, restaurant and 25

It says that the city would get more tax money from the condominium project than from commercial development of the property. "The long-term tax revenue impacts, however, we feel would be greater in the total amount of monies generated by the proposed project than the alternative of strictly commercial uses or lower residential uses," it says.

Copies of the engineering study are available at the library and at city hall.

City hall property is important in setting city's character, too

prospect of selling their old city hall property, city officials will apparently be considering more than dollars if and when they decide to sell the property.

City government operations will be moving out of the old building and into the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Co. offices sometime during the coming

Commissioners made it clear at their meeting Tuesday night that they want to give a lot of thought to how the old city hall property can best be used in the

The commission discussed a memo from City Manager Tim Clifton. He urged that Because of the prime location and the potential for any number of types of development on the parcel, it would be in the best interest of the city to sell the property with strict controls on its development,"

The city commission agreed with Clifton's recommendation to refer the matter to the planning commission. The planning commission is being asked to make a recommendation before the city commission's Oct. 10 meeting.

Clifton noted that while the development of the former tannery property will shape "the future and character of the city." the development of the city hall property is "equally significant," because of its downtown and waterfront location.

The city manager made note of the 'Back to Main Street" trend of restoring the historical appearance of downtowns which has taken hold in Boyne City and other small towns.

"Possible developments could be a commercial and office center with apartments on the upper level or a 'seaside motif' or a 'wharf motif' professional or commercial complex," he wrote.

"These are only two ideas, but if the city would actively advertise the property, a number of more innovative and beneficial projects would surely be proposed." Clifton pointed out the commission would be required to seek bids on the property if it were to be sold, but "would not be required to accept the highest bid if the proposed use is not acceptable to the Commissioner Steve Moody said "I think it's a great idea and we can't get started too early. It's going to take a long time to determine the best usage.

Commissioner Joe Gierlach agreed that planning should begin now, but pointed out that the city might decide to keep the property for its own use.

With summer winding down, it's time for adult education

BOYNE CITY - Summertime recreational activities will soon be ending, so this might be the time to consider taking an adult education class from the Boyne Community Education Department.

Several new courses are being offered this fall. Prospective students can register at the community education office, 215 Water Street, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

In addition to adult education and enrichment classes, the Community Education Department will be sponsoring several other activities. The Lakeside Players, a theatrical group organized last spring, is currently searching for new plays to produce and new members to make them go.

Last spring the players did a series of one act plays as part of a dinner theater presentation at the Dilworth.

Topics are still being selected for the Boyne Forum series. Past presentations have covered real estate, legal debates and environmental issues. Anyone who has a suggestion for a topic can call Mike Davis at 582-6765.
