New effort for downtown renovation

Some business owners in East Jordan would like to adopt an old-fashioned theme for downtown stores and offices. Instead of "modernizing" when stores are remodeled, they hope to restore the town's older buildings to their original stateliness.

BY JIM BAUMANN

EAST JORDAN - The Chamber of Commerce is spearheading a renewed effort to renovate the downtown business district.

The Chamber board of directors discussed the subject for the second time Tuesday night and decided to invite all area business owners to an organizational meeting on Tuesday, March 13.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall on Main Street.

A major goal of the meeting will be to do what a number of other cities are doing -- agree on a common building theme for the renovations.

The Chamber attempted a similar building renovation movement about seven years ago.

That effort failed, however, because of two problems: taxes and financing. This time, Chamber board members think they can clear those hurdles.

Low interest (3 percent) loans will probably be available through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). City resident Mike Burr, who works with HUD on a city loan program for home renovations, told the Chamber last week that businesses can probably qualify for a similar program.

Burr has invited a HUD official to attend the March 13 Chamber meeting in East Jordan.

A new state tax break could also provide further incentive for East Jordan businesses to renovate or rebuild their facilities.

Chamber board member Duane Chappuis, owner of Jordan Valley Drugs, has been looking into the Michigan Commercial Redevelopment Act. It was passed last year to make 12 year tax breaks possible for businesses that are remodeled or rebuilt.

In order for East Jordan businesses to get the tax break, the city council would have to hold public hearings and establish a commercial redevelopment district.

To qualify for this tax break, a business renovation would have to amount to at least 10 percent of the value of the building.

For example, $3,000 worth of improvements would have to be made on a $30,000 building. In return, the business owners assessed property value would be frozen at the $30,000 level for 12 years.

If a new building were built in the redevelopment district, it would be taxed at only half of its assessed value for 12 years.

City Council member Patricia Sweet, who is also a downtown business owner, attended the Chamber meeting this week and said she thought the council would support commercial redevelopment tax breaks.

"I don't think there would be any problems getting this approved by the council," she said. "In fact, I think the whole community would jump at the opportunity to see Main Street spruced up."

Four Seasons Marina owner Vern Stark, who was involved with the original downtown renovation attempt in 1972 and 73, said he thinks the renewed effort will work.

"Taxes were the main problem back then," he said. "Most people were afraid of the increased taxes if they remodeled their stores. To get the thing off the ground, I even offered to donate my labor to do two stores for free -- and nobody would take me up on it."

"I think this new tax law ought to make a big difference," he said.

A common theme for the building renovations will hopefully be decided March 13. Chamber members generally support an old-fashioned theme -- turn of the century Victorian or logging theme, possibly in combination.

This is popular because it is authentic. The city has a number of gracious old Victorian mansions built during the lumbering era -- the late 1800's and early 1900's.

Pat Sweet noted that "In the last few years, nostalgia is the thing, and everybody is trying to get a piece of it -- especially with all the chrome and neon lights and plastic you see today."

Mrs. Sweet said she thought that if one-third to one-half of the downtown businesses would commit themselves to following the theme in their renovations, "The rest of the businesses eventually will fall in, too."

Carol Tighe, owner of the EJ Shop, has invited a representative of the Central Lake Chamber of Commerce to attend the March 13 meeting in East Jordan. A film will be shown about how nearly every store in that "turn of the century village" participated in a one-day facelift last summer.

Devils lose battle for second place, 87-67

EAST JORDAN - The Red Devil varsity basketball team lost its battle for second place in the Ski Valley Conference Tuesday night to Harbor Springs.

After beating the Rams on their home court 10 days before, East Jordan fell victim to a cold second half Tuesday and lost by an 87-67 margin.

The Red Devils looked like they might make a ball game out of it early in the fourth quarter. They cut a 13 point Harbor lead to 72-65 with 4:54 left.

East Jordan outscored the Rams 8-2 in 1:10 as a full court press paid off with two steals.

But then Harbor bounced back with eight straight points and 15 of the next 17 to pull out of reach.

Dave Burch and Duane Carpenter led the Red Devil scoring with 18 points each, despite sitting out some of the fourth period in foul trouble. Duane Cutler added 13 and Tim Kraemer had eight points.

The East Jordan junior varsity raised its record to 16-2 and gained revenge for a 23-point loss at Harbor. This time East Jordan won by 23 points, 82-59, to deal the Rams their only JV defeat in conference play.

The Red Devil JV won with a torrid 50-20 advantage in the second half. Harbor had led by a 39-32 margin at halftime, but East Jordan outscored the visitors 19-4 in the third quarter and 31-16 in the fourth.

New drinking age

Mixed reaction to law

BY JOE McELROY

When Michigan voters raised the state drinking age to 21 last November, local bar owners knew they weren't going to like it. Their only question was how much harm it would do.

Proponents of the higher drinking age see it as a way to cut down on alcohol-related traffic accidents and high school drinking. Opponents said the law is unfair to young people who are legally adults under other areas of the law.

Bar owners report varying degrees of business loss since the law went into effect. Jerry LeDuc of Jerry's Place in East Jordan estimates his business is down 10 to 15 percent.

"It's been very costly to us," LeDuc said. "I hope we can get it back on the ballot in 1980. I just don't think it's fair. People that age have every other right and responsibility."

LeDuc said the higher drinking age has especially hurt business in his game room, which features pinball and other youthful attractions.

"That game room used to have several people in there during the day," he said. "Now I have nobody."

The effect of the new law hasn't hurt all bars equally. Some never catered to the 18 to 20-year-old set, and so don't miss them now.

One such bar is Swane's Rainbow. It's located in East Jordan less than a block away from Jerry's Place, but Clarence Swanson hasn't had any major problem with the higher drinking age.

"I've lost a few, but nothing serious," Swanson said. "I bet my till hasn't shown more than $10 difference because of the new law."

"We don't get that many kids in here. It's just the old local bar."

Both Mac McNichols of The Boyne River Inn and Rick Vogel of the Dilworth in Boyne City say the 21-year-old drinking age has hurt their weeknight business of local residents.

"Our ski weekends are as good or better than ever," McNichols said. "But it's down during the week."

Vogel agreed that weeknight business is down, but can't compare it with last year at the same time because the Dilworth's Gallery, popular with the younger crowd, didn't open until last summer.

"The customer count and everything else is down," he said, "but I don't know if you can attribute that to the drinking age."

"I don't know what to expect up here on weeknights during the winter. It's definitely hurt, there's no denying that, but I can't say how much."

Vogel said the Gallery is now drawing 40-50 customers on weeknights, far down from the summer crowds. But he's not too discouraged because, "That's still more than anyone else is drawing."

But neither Vogel or McNichols feel the new law is any threat to the continued success of their businesses, even though McNichols says, "Another problem is that Boyne City has too many bars." (Approximately seven in the city with two more just outside town.)

"The new law probably hasn't hurt as much as we expected," said McNichols, who was one of the most active opponents of the measure before the election. Indeed, both the Dilworth and BRI have been so crowded in recent weekends that parking anywhere near the intersection of Water and East Streets has been scarce.

But the new law was followed by an interpretation that is difficult for crowded bars to enforce. "The state civil rights commission said you have to let them (18 to 20-year-olds) in even though you can't serve them," McNichols said.

"How am I going to enforce that?" Vogel asks. "The law is contradictory." Clarence Swanson of Swane's said it's not a major problem for him because his crowds are smaller and he knows everyone who comes in.

Swanson said minors still come in to play pool occasionally, realizing they won't be able to drink.

McNichols said the BRI won't serve anybody at a table with a minor present. He said one group of six people, including one underage, recently came in and asked for drinks for the five legal drinkers.

When told none of them could be served because they were with a minor, McNichols said, they all left. "So I didn't lose just the underage drinker, I lost five others," he said.

No bar owner reported any increase in police surveillance since the new drinking age was established. "They're not harassing us or anything like that," said Jerry LeDuc.

"They come in once in a while and check people's ID's. That's just normal procedure."

Many opponents of the old drinking age pointed out it allowed some high school students to legally buy liquor, making it more available to other high schoolers as well.

But even though the legal drinking age has been raised, the effect on students is hard to measure, according to Glenn Irwin, Boyne City's high school counselor.

"We have no direct way of measuring it," Irwin said. "But I can't think of any incidents involving our kids lately."

"Last year we had some kids come into some school activities inebriated. I am not aware of that happening this year."

Irwin said other factors, such as the end to split day schedules, can also influence student behavior.

Jim Hasma pours a beer at the Dilworth in Boyne City. Some area bar owners say their weeknight crowds are down because of the higher drinking age.

Look at that eclipse!

East Jordan's solar eclipse viewing station was a big hit Monday as more than 150 people stopped to see the moon casting a shadow on the sun. Here, Alan Pareis, who organized the project, adjusts a telescope as Barb Harder looks on. Since it isn't safe to look directly at the sun, Pareis had several telescopes set up to show images of the sun on easels. The viewing station was set up in the parking lot of the Northwestern State Bank. There were also other ways to see the eclipse safely - through pinhole cameras made of cardboard boxes, looking through exposed film, and watching television, which showed the total eclipse seen in the western states. The television was provided by Vallance TV, and Lake Charlevoix Cable TV provided a free hookup to make it possible. Helping set up the viewing station were Arlene and Wes Westhoven and Barb Harder, all members of an astronomy class Pareis taught last year for Community Education.

It's a tough issue, but sex ed needs study

Sex education. You can call it whatever fancy terms you like, but everyone knows what "reproductive health" really means. The question is what to do about it.

It's a question that Michigan public schools didn't have to face until recently. That's because until 1977 sex education was not permitted in the schools. If children didn't get proper sex education at home or somewhere else, it wasn't the school's problem.

Editorial

Schools can still avoid sex education, but now the law permits them to teach it - with school board approval. Special local committees must first be established to study the issue.

The Boyne City and Boyne Falls school boards began facing up to the question in recent weeks by taking the first step towards establishing study committees.

Sex education in schools was a hot potato in the state legislature and could become a controversial issue locally as well. But if the issue is handled properly, hopefully most of the controversy can be avoided.

We think the state was on the right track by mandating special committees to develop sex education programs. That means that two citizen groups, the special committee and the school board, must approve any sex education programs before they become part of the school curriculum.

In addition, any parent who objects to sex education classes can request exemptions for their children. This option, plus careful consideration of community standards, can lead to establishment of policies that should be acceptable to most reasonable members of the community.

It should be stressed that the establishment of committees to study sex education in schools doesn't guarantee that full-scale sex education courses will ever be taught. The committees might recommend to their school boards that the subject should be taught at home and kept out of the schools.

Even if that's the end result of the committees' work, their establishment is still a good idea. School officials report that some areas of sex education are already discussed in health, biology and social studies classes. Without going into individual classrooms, it's difficult to determine how wide a range of sex-related topics are already being taught.

The committee's job is to make school practices in this area jive with what the community wants. If an overwhelmingly majority of area residents oppose any form of sex education in school, then that's the way it should be.

We don't think the committees are going to find any such wide-spread sentiment against any form of sex education. Whatever happens, calling attention to the issue will hopefully make parents aware that sex education is a part of parenting they can't run away from, no matter what's being taught in schools.

The pregnancy rate among unwed teen-agers is much too high, which leads us to believe that many parents aren't providing their children with adequate sex education.

It's a subject that should be discussed at home, but maybe the schools should step in for the good of our youth. But whatever the outcome, hopefully raising the issue will serve to remind some parents of their responsibilities. That alone would be progress.

Letters to the editor

No offense intended, seniors

Editor,

This is an open letter to the senior citizens of the East Jordan Senior Center:

Please accept my apology if I have offended you in any way; I sincerely did not intend to. I would like to ask you to not to assume facts from hearsay. Since I was the one who approached the council about our parking problem, I feel an obligation to explain to you the true facts.

The first step I took was to type up a petition asking the city council to re-enact the city ordinance on one hour parking during daytime business hours. As I was asking for signatures a few merchants made the comment "The seniors are taking up the parking spaces". The council asked me what the problem is and, yes, I did say it was people from the Senior Center along with a few of our own merchants and the tenants above the businesses.

I am aware the seniors have no place else to park. And they have every right to park on Main Street as long as they wish because there is no parking ordinance for daytime.

I asked the council why the city couldn't renovate the back of the community building into a drive-in parking lot for seniors. After the meeting it was revealed that city superintendent Rasch has a dream to renovate the building for a recreation center, $70,000 worth, and absolutely no thought in mind for parking for that facility. Don't get me wrong - I'm not against his dream, I'm only asking where are the people going to park? Just as the same question should have been asked before the Senior Center was renovated.

I was not condemning you, I was merely making suggestions to the council for a parking solution for our seniors other than Main Street. The only solution for the merchants and tenants who abuse Main Street is to enforce a time limit. I understand these people do have parking elsewhere but refuse to use it.

Maybe our parking problem is not a serious matter except for the summer months. I'm looking for an answer now before we have to face another summer like we did last year. Most of us depend on our summer people to shop on Main Street. And you have to agree, you're busy too. More people like to get out during the nice weather and it is much safer driving.

Again I approached the council about the back of the community building as a drive-in parking. My answer was "But it would cost too much for upkeep and insurance and that it would be a bad place for parking." I can't argue with the statement that it may be a bad place for parking, I honestly don't know if it would or not. But my gosh, would the upkeep and insurance cost more than the $70,000 for Mr. Rasch's dream, and what about the upkeep and insurance for that?

I am working with the Chamber of Commerce on promoting Main Street to adopt a theme and renovate all the businesses that need it. Wouldn't it be nice to see East Jordan the way it used to be? Maybe even better? But that takes money for us to do this and let's face it, first things first, and that is adequate parking to satisfy everyone.

My suggestion to you is please do not be against me for trying to improve your town. Instead, go to a council meeting and ask them to provide you with more parking. After all, you do deserve consideration. I have a great deal of respect for the senior citizens! Please work with me on this, not against me.

I'm sorry I did not approach you to begin with. The misunderstanding could have been avoided.

Thanks for Grandvue

Editor,

My mother, Mary Cooper, who is recently deceased, was a patient at Grandvue Medical Care Facility for five and a half years. During that time I visited Grandvue several times weekly, and I can't give enough praise to the administration and all employees there.

The residents receive excellent care from trained personnel who are so kind, so patient and so understanding. Their meals are nutritious and attractively served, and they have the advantage of therapy, recreational, social and religious activities - all provided in clean, sanitary, pleasant housing.

We are so fortunate in Charlevoix County to have Grandvue!

My most sincere thanks to all of the staff there.

Chicken coops at new bank? Surprises in Wilson Township

Wilson Township may have its very own financial institution -- a new bank, positioned along M-75, beyond where the city limit drains off into the township.

It's not an uncommon occurrence these days. Many people have constructed homes and businesses across the line into the township. I did it. I built a home on Marshall Road beyond where the city limit drizzles off into the township.

It's done mainly, I think, to get away from the around the clock bustle of the city.

Like the rest of us, the new bank will enjoy the peaceful surroundings. Few people come around to bother you. And among other things it offers an opportunity to step outside without a shirt on. One can scratch one's back and yawn without some tomfool driving by gaping and pointing. What a life!

Many banks are built in the hub of the city's whirl of activities. Employees can't make a move without someone staring. It must be disturbing not being able to scratch your back on the job.

Yes, our new Wilson Township bank will have a much easier go of it. Employees who wish to kick off their shoes and go wading through the tall grass at lunch time will not be noticed.

They can savor the luxury of stretching out on the lawn while contemplating the gross national product. And they can drink in the gentle breeze and perhaps move their social status to the great heights we enjoy in Wilson Township.

There is, however, one thing I hope the new bank has taken into consideration. I failed to do it, and I'm mad.

Wilson Township has this thing about taxes. The first year you move in, your tax bill won't amount to more than two rows of well hoed beans - navy, I think. But when the second year comes around, they hit you over the septic tank with a tax bill as potent as the ten commandments.

Each succeeding year your tax bill goes up a little higher. I've been here six years now and my tax bill is so high there isn't any high left.

We put in a garden to help with the winter food bill and we go into the back 40 for firewood to help lower the heating bill. One does what one can to get along in Wilson Township.

I don't think bank employees have time to raise a garden, but they might keep a flock of chickens in the back yard. And during those dull periods between cashing a check and making out a loan, they could step into the back yard and scatter feed around for the hens.

One caution, though. Chickens should not be allowed into the bank proper. People in Wilson Township are quick minded. Right off they'd think the bank was giving away a chicken to anyone opening a new account.

There are other ways to help shore up your income in the township, as long as the people don't object. I made the mistake of raising goats in my back yard without asking. And look what happened to me!

So it's best to check with your neighbors first.

Banks with cranky neighbors ain't in luck.

Letter from the editor

Life in a fishbowl

Part of my job is to read other weekly newspapers. There are some very good ones in Michigan, and the editors exchange papers so we can steal ideas from each other.

It's amazing how the same types of stories and controversies pop up in other towns. One of our neighboring papers recently told of the simultaneous resignation of both the school superintendent and the school board president.

Nothing that dramatic has happened around here, at least not recently, but we've certainly had our share of turnover among public officials. A look at other communities proves how tough it is all over for those in the public eye.

In a little over a year we have seen the resignation, under various circumstances, of: the Boyne City Manager, the East Jordan and Boyne City school board chairmen, the Boyne Falls school superintendent, the East Jordan and Boyne City high school principals, and the Charlevoix City Manager.

And some people would like to see a few more changes. Some don't think the Boyne City manager is too young and/or abrasive. Others think the East Jordan superintendent of schools can't communicate, and some don't like the fact that the Boyne City school superintendent lives out of the district.

Of course, not all the departures we've seen in the past year were under negative circumstances. The two school board presidents were acknowledged by most to be doing good jobs, but left because they couldn't devote enough time to business interests. Others left for better jobs.

But even those who left under the best of circumstances might have been influenced in their decision by the pressures of the jobs. Why is it so tough being in the public eye?

Wherever you go, those who get paid by tax dollars to serve the public are going to face pressures not normally found in private business. Everybody wants to know what public officials are doing with all that tax money, so they have to live with open meetings, elections, constant criticism and badgering journalists.

That's the way it should be. Some public officials sometimes forget the responsibilities of openness that go along with their place of status in their communities. This often happens in areas where one party or group dominates the political scene. Arrogance usually results.

But the pressures of being a public official are probably even stronger in small communities than in large cities. A school board member or alderman in Chicago can leave his work behind, walk into a McDonald's and become just another faceless citizen waiting in line for a Big Mac.

In a small town, he might get two or three complaints before he gets his fries. And we don't even have a McDonald's.

A siege mentality often results. One area resident swears he and his wife get fewer social invitations since he joined the school board. So why do they do it? A common answer is that "somebody has to."

That's true. But, while they might not often realize it themselves, there is a sense of satisfaction from public service that is hard to duplicate when working for a profit-making concern.

The point of all this is that nominating petitions for area school boards are due April 9, so now is the time for prospective candidates to decide whether they're going to run for election.

East Jordan has four seats up for election. Boyne City and Boyne Falls both have two open. Last year there was little or no competition in some elections. Let's hope that doesn't happen again this year.

The incumbents have generally done good jobs in their difficult positions, but a little competition might serve to remind everyone that public service should also be a privilege, not just a duty.

Singers strive to find their niche

BY CAROL J. WINDSOR

Long before Carol Johnson and Helen Noeldner-Brummer were billed as the Noel Sisters, entertaining Granarygoers in Boyne City, their voices blended in song.

That was a number of years ago on a 200-acre dairy farm, 60 miles east of Eau Claire, Wisconsin. Carol, Helen and their three sisters began singing together on the farm, then in church and at school.

Ms. Johnson said one pastor in their Lutheran Church was so strict that when the girls sang and were accompanied by a guitar, he made them sing from a balcony so they could not be seen by the congregation.

They've come a long way from singing in a silo, which, Ms. Johnson says, still beats singing in the shower.

The fires of ambition were fanned when the five Noeldner sisters won a Grand Old Opry Talent Search and were flown to Nashville to perform on the Opry radio program.

Ms. Johnson, who is a couple of years older than Ms. Noeldner-Brummer, won't say how long ago that was, but she was about 17 years-old, she said.

No professional contracts resulted from that performance, but the quintet performed at the Wisconsin State Fair and also recorded advertisements for the fair.

Both women graduated from Wisconsin State University at Eau Claire. Carol, a music major, had married, and went to New York City where her husband was a seminary student.

She did not perform professionally. While in New York, she taught music at an elementary school in the Bronx, worked with church choirs and, with her husband, helped at a summer camp for New York ghetto youth in upper New York State for a couple of summers.

In 1970, they came to Grand Rapids where Ms. Johnson resumed her career as a vocalist, but this time as a solo act. "I felt naked," she remembers, without her four sisters.

Singing and writing music go hand-in-hand for Carol Johnson. To really make it in the world of folk-country music, she believed she had to head for Nashville, the Tin Pan Alley of country-western music.

"I trusted Nashville musicians," she said.

Folk country music, because of its simplicity and little use of complicated and extensive orchestration, is practical for her, she says. She plays the guitar and piano when she performs but played the trumpet in high school, and played her grandmother's pipe organ before the family had a piano.

The floss of the accomplished entertainer is there. She is animated in performance, grabbing the attention of her audience with ease. The blend of the sisters' voices is mellow. It's as if they were notched into harmony, fitting perfectly to each interval.

Ms. Johnson said when the five sisters began performing, "we harmonized every word." Even now, she says, she and her sister never have to talk about phrasing. Her other three sisters are not in music. If they were to sing together now, they'd probably all have a lot of practicing to do, she said.

Singing provided a diversion for the girls when they were growing up, Carol said. They had no television, because their father, a second-generation German, was "extra old fashioned."

From their mother, a second generation Norwegian, they learned the importance of culture and education, the women said.

Their father taught them independence and self control, Mrs. Noeldner-Brummer said. From him they gained a respect for integrity and the ideal of perfection. "I always felt if he ever said anything, it was absolutely true," she said.

Those standards prevail in their principles today. "You can pile this table down with contracts and it doesn't mean a thing. It's only what you do and what you say that counts," Ms. Johnson said.

Their father may not have approved of their early singing efforts, she said, but today, "I think he's real proud."

Two years ago, at age 60, he began to learn how to play the piano, she said with pride.

She got the job at the Granary by answering an advertisement in a Detroit newspaper. She spent last summer there and was joined in September by her sister.

Her audition for the Granary job was an album of her own songs recorded on the Tenn-Can label. Last year's engagement went so well she returned in January and will stay until the end of summer this year.

She likes performing at the Granary and calls it a "warm room."

"There are more people here with money and connections" than at other engagements she has played, she said. She calls them "fat cats," but the term is a statement of fact and carries no criticism with it when she says it.

Her single, also a cut on the album, "For At Least One Hundred Years," is getting considerable play on area stations. Her eyes brighten when it is played, and she reaches for the volume knob on her radio.

The music is upbeat. The words are a warning to keep away -- no temporary loves -- for at least 100 years.

The only other song she wrote that has been recorded is "I'm Going to be a Country Queen (and tomorrow I'll be a star)," recorded by Tiny Tim. Why did he choose that song? She shakes her head and says, "Because he's bizarre."

She wrote it when she was caught in a traffic jam in Nashville, she said. "I write best in the car. I'm more relaxed. At a minimum, I'm going to get something done," she said, adding that it may be only getting from one place to another.

The notes on one song on her album describe one such instance:

"Driving up to Kentucky from Nashville I was thinking of this rather 'unique' person I'd met recently. I pulled off to the side of the road and chuckled as I proceeded to write this tribute to him. A state trooper pulled alongside to see if I was having car trouble. 'Nope, just writing a song,' says I. 'Far out,' says he."

"If I write the words down, I don't forget the tune," Ms. Johnson said.

While she's performing, her smiles, the red silk flower in her auburn hair, the enthusiasm of her music, are innocent, no matter what sad words of world-weary exploits she sings.

Off stage, she is intent. The hint of the Wisconsin farm is there in her "fresh off the farm" look and in her determination through hard work to "make it."

She wants to stay in one place to give her daughter, Shalom, age 9, and son Luke, age 10, some stability. They live in Grand Rapids, and she looks forward to a summer with them.

"I've never stayed anywhere long enough to have a local reputation," she said, and hopes that will be a reality by the time the summer ends.

The Noel Sisters, a name they chose from the first four letters of their maiden names, call the song "Ready for the Times to Get Better" their theme song.

The lyrics say, "It's been a too long time, with no piece of mind, and I'm ready for the times to get better."

The climb may not have been easy thus far, but there's no sign that the sisters have been either bowed or broken. The life they breathe into their music and the excitement they generate is best exemplified by a man in their audience last week.

They had just finished performing a song written by Ms. Noeldner-Brummer called "Billy." It's catchy -- almost too trite a description for the foot-tapping that was going on. More than that, it tells a happy story of love and life.

The applause was immediate, and the man chuckled as it continued. "That's the first time I ever started to clap," he said, surprised by himself.

Mrs. Johnson spends some of her spare time reading, practicing her music, and learning calligraphy -- the artistic script writing seen on her posters and advertising.

Her offstage life is "rather boring," she says, calling her hours of performing the "heart of the day."

She'd like to establish her reputation as a song writer.

And in 10 years?

"I want to get into the Grand Old Opry, if you want to know the truth," she says with a burst of enthusiasm.

"We want to get rich and buy the farm so it will never go away," Ms. Noeldner-Brummer said.

"I like down-home things. I like to sing for the folks," Ms. Johnson said -- and she means it.

Carol Johnson gets some inspiration from a furry friend. The singer says she wants to find a place to perform where she can feel at home, and thinks Boyne City might be that place.

The Noel Sisters, Helen and Carol, sing and play a wide range of music while performing at the Granary. The two sisters have sang together for so long that many of their harmonies just come naturally.

Junction Inn

The Whistle Stop in Boyne Falls may be the only restaurant in the area where you can read the tables. That's because the wooden tables are decorated with newspaper clippings, photographs and mementos of the Boyne area's early logging and railroad days. The family restaurant, operated by owner Barbara Bates and her daughters, also offers such specialties as homemade chili, soups, omelettes and vegetarian meals, including a vegetarian submarine sandwich. The Whistle Stop is located on the northeast corner of the intersection of M-75 and highway 131.

Weeknights and early bird specials

Pam and Andy Allen of Advance [facing camera] and Mike and Becky Randall of Ypsilanti enjoy the Sunday prime rib special at the Dilworth in Boyne City. The Dilworth is one of many area restaurants that offer special prices on certain nights.

Restaurants offer bargains too

Here's the scenario:

You're in the mood for dining out at a nice place -- but your pocketbook can't survive the usual $30 or $40 price tag of dinner and drinks for two.

Knowing where to go on what nights can just about cut that price in half for the wise diner.

With thousands of skiers invading the Northland on weekends, most restaurants have no trouble filling their tables and lounges on Friday and Saturday nights.

But many restaurants offer great meals at reduced prices at times when they're not busy -- weeknights and "Early Bird Specials" on weekends. Drinks are also reduced at many places early in the evening.

If you're a "local" or a skier who is staying in the area all week, you can get some great bargains by keeping your eyes open for these specials. You'll at least save enough money to pay for your babysitter and gasoline!

Here's a sampling of area restaurants and bars with their possibilities for patron penny-pinching:

DILWORTH, Boyne City -- Wed. nité, 10 oz. New York strip steak with the works, $5.25; Sun., prime rib with the works, $5.95.

GRANARY, Boyne City -- Mon. thru Thurs., from 5 to 8 p.m., choose from three entrees at $5.

THE LANDING, next to the Ironton Ferry, features "Spaghetti Night" every Thursday. For $4.25 you even get a glass of red wine, salad and roll with your spaghetti.

THE DEPOT, Boyne City, has fresh fish for Perch Night every Friday. A perch dinner is $5.25.

THE LAMPLIGHT INN, Central Lake, has a buffet every night for $5.95, and you save a dollar between noon and 4 on Sunday.

HOLIDAY INN, Petoskey -- March 6, Senior Citizen Night with a $1 reduction on the price of the buffet for anyone over age 55. Entertainment from 7 to 8:30 p.m. by barbershoppers.

COUNTRY HEARTH, Petoskey -- Mon. thru Fri., from 5 to 7 p.m., Early Bird dinners for $5.95, choice of four entrees.

FLYING DUTCHMAN, Petoskey -- Any night from 5 to 7 p.m., a complete meal with smaller entree portions for $4.25 to $5.95. Cocktail hour from 4 to 6 p.m., half price drinks.

DUFFY'S of Charlevoix -- Fri. all-you-can-eat fish fry, $5.95, Sat. all-you-can-eat, fried chicken and/or barbecued spareribs, $7.95.

PIER, Harbor Springs -- Chart Room specials each night from five entrees for $5.55. Happy Hour drinks at close to 50 percent reduction.

THIS OLD HOUSE, Conway -- Wed., thru Sun., 5 to 8 p.m., specials vary from barbecued spareribs at $3.75 on Thursday to prime rib on Saturday at $8.50. Drinks are reduced from 4 to 7 p.m.

BOYNE CITY COMMISSION MINUTES

RECORD OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE REGULAR MEETING OF THE BOYNE CITY COMMISSION DULY CALLED AND HELD AT BOYNE CITY HALL ON TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1979 AT 7:00 P.M.

Roll Call: Present: Mayor Kieth Fitzpatrick, Commissioners Thelma Behling, Joseph Gierlach, Catherine Jessup and Steven Moody. Also Present: City Manager Timothy J. Clifton, who also acted as Clerk and City Attorney Harvey Varnum. Absent: City Clerk Tom Garlock.

The minutes of the last Regular Meeting of January 9, 1979 were approved, with corrections.

City Manager presented correspondence from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission requesting local legislative approval of a Liquor License transfer. The Police Chief has reviewed the request and has no objection to the transfer.

Moved by Moody, seconded by Behling that the request, from Daniel Chamberlain for transfer ownership of 1978 Class C licensed business with Dance Permit, located at 114 S. Lake Street, Boyne City, Michigan, Charlevoix County, from Wilford M. Bennett, be approved. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

The City Manager gave a report on the adoption of a Clean Waters Management Plan for Northwest Michigan as presented by the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning Commission. The adoption of this plan was tabled for one month, so that the Commission may examine its contents and make their decision for adoption at the next Commission meeting.

A parking lot lease between the City of Boyne City and Courter, Inc., was discussed. The lease would be for the maximum period permitted under the City Charter, i.e., three years, with a renewal option for one-year periods thereafter. A total of 34,375 square feet will be made available to Courter, Inc., at the site of the new City Hall, for use as a parking area for approximately 85 vehicles. The amount due and payable to the City has been established at $2,100.00 annually to be paid in 12 monthly installments of $175.00 per month.

Courter, Inc. is responsible for all maintenance associated with the leased area, as well as snow removal. Courter, Inc. has agreed to improve the site through the addition of a green-belt on the south and east sides of the parking area. Any additional repairs or improvements must first be approved by the City of Boyne City.

Moved by Fitzpatrick, seconded by Behling to act on the recommendation of the City Attorney and City Manager to approve the parking lot lease with Courter, Inc., as outlined, and directs the City Manager to sign said lease agreement in behalf of the City of Boyne City. Roll call vote: Yeas: Fitzpatrick, Behling, Jessup and Gierlach, Nays: None. Abstention: Moody. Motion carried.

A lease contract between the City of Boyne City and the Charlevoix ASC Committee was discussed. The proposed three-year lease would be in the amount of $8,046.00 annually for the rental of 1,341 square feet of office space at City Hall to be paid in 12 monthly installments of $670.50 per month. The effective starting date of the lease is February 28, 1979. The City Attorney reviewed this contract-lease and has approved it as to form. It was the recommendation of the City Manager that this contract-lease be approved.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Jessup to authorize the City Manager to sign the contract-lease on behalf of the City of Boyne City, with the Charlevoix ASC Committee, as outlined above. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

A lease contract between the City of Boyne City and the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service was discussed. The proposed three-year lease would be in the amount of $18,612.00 over three years in 36 equal installments of $517.00 per month, for 1,034 square feet of office space. The effective starting date of this lease is February 28, 1979, with a termination date of February 28, 1982, with the Lessee having the option to renew said lease for a period of one year after the expiration of the term of this lease. The City Attorney has reviewed the contract and approved it as to form.

Moved by Moody, seconded by Jessup to authorize the City Manager to sign the contract-lease on behalf of the City of Boyne City, with the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service, as amended, as outlined above. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

A lease contract between the City of Boyne City and North State Electric Corporation was discussed. The proposed three-year office space lease for 400 square feet of floor space would be in the amount of $7,200.00, with an annual rent of $2,400.00 to be paid in 12 equal installments of $200.00 per month commencing with occupancy on February 19, 1979. The City Attorney has reviewed the contract and approved it as to form.

Moved by Fitzpatrick, seconded by Moody to authorize the City Manager to sign the contract-lease on behalf of the City of Boyne City, with North State Electric Corporation as outlined above. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Consideration of bids for six portable room partitions and accessory hardware to be used in the new City Hall in conjunction with the leased area of the building was discussed. The installation of portable room partitions was viewed as more beneficial than installing permanent structures, and it would be more feasible to accommodate future growth by tenants in the leased portion as well as providing flexibility to the City in the event new tenants have different requirements. Funds are budgeted and are available in Account Code No. 80-E-2.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Moody to award the bid for six portable room partitions and accessory hardware, to Schafer's, Boyne City, in the amount of $1,079.20. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Moved by Jessup, seconded by Fitzpatrick to authorize Change Order No. 2 with Seals and Roberts, Contractors for City Hall Remodeling Project, in the amount of $1,797.00, for additional work and repairs precipitated by structural remodeling of the City Hall office complex building. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Jessup to authorize Change Order NO. 3 with Seals and Roberts, Contractors for City Hall Remodeling Project, in the amount of $1,797.00, for additional work and repairs precipitated by structural remodeling of the City Hall office complex building. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

The City Manager named the winners of the City Logo Contest, which were selected by a committee composed of Joe Gierlach, Sandy Vansteenkiste, Chuck Britton and Timothy Clifton. The winners were: First Place, Tie; Melanie Sims and Ann Thurston; Third Place, Stacey Stokes; Fourth Place, Sue Toffolo; Fifth Place, Ann Lewis.

The City Manager gave his monthly report of the budget. Accounts Payable for the month of January, in the amount of $18,436.74 were approved.

Moved by Gierlach, seconded by Jessup upon the recommendation of the Parks and Recreation Commission that Don Lockman be appointed to the Parks and Recreation Commission to serve as the 8th member of said Commission. His term expires on April 11, 1981. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Moved by Jessup to appoint Paul C. Tyjewski to the Zoning Board of Appeals. Due to lack of support, this motion died on the floor.

Moved by Jessup, seconded by Behling to appoint Skip Sheaffer to the Zoning Board of Appeals, to fill the unexpired term of Dale Parsons, with his term ending September 1, 1981. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

City Manager Clifton gave the following report on the closing of the Library:

Beginning on February 28 and continuing for the next two weeks through March 13, 1979, the Boyne City Public Library will be undertaking major interior renovation. The project will include sanding and refinishing of all the floors, painting the interior of the building and completing minor repairs to the woodwork, windows and doors.

To accomplish this, it is necessary that all the library books and materials be relocated. Consequently, it is necessary that the library be closed from February 29 through March 13. Adequate notice will be published in the paper so that those needing Library materials will be able to secure them prior to closing of the library.

An ordinance to establish a Boyne City Historical Commission came under discussion with Robert Morgoridge speaking in support of such an ordinance. The matter was tabled until the March Regular Commission Meeting, to enable the City Attorney to study further the wording of said ordinance.

The purchase of a traffic island located at the intersection of Wisner and Lewis streets, for $100.00 from Mrs. Veronica Richards, was presented by the City Manager.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Moody to authorize the City Attorney to draw up the necessary papers and that the City Manager be authorized to sign said papers, for the purchase of the traffic island at the intersection of Wisner and Lewis streets, for $100.00 from Mrs. Veronica Richards. Funds are available in Account Code No. 80-B-2 - Land Sale Expense, for said purchase. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Sale of a City owned lot, previously tabled in November, 1978, was discussed by the City Manager. At the November meeting an offer of $500.00 was made for Lot 93 of Jersey's Addition. Upon the advice of the City Attorney, the Commission decided to advertise for bids. Only one bid was received in the amount of $500.00.

Moved by Fitzpatrick, seconded by Jessup, upon the recommendation of the City Manager, that the City sell Lot No. 93 Jersey's Addition to Ms. M.J. Nichols of Colwell Realtors, in the amount of $500.00 and authorize the City Manager to sign the sales contract on behalf of the City. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Gierlach that the meeting adjourn. Meeting adjourned at 8:15 p.m. Tom Garlock, City Clerk.

'March Madness' is here again

It's tournament time again, that time of basketball season when new hope springs forth for even the most disappointing teams. There's always the chance of an upset.

Boyer City and East Jordan will both be in the class C district at Onaway High School. Boyer Falls will be in the class D district at Ellsworth.

At Onaway Boyer City faces Rogers City at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The winner plays in the finals at 7 on Friday, March 9. East Jordan's first district game will be at 7 p.m. Wednesday, when they will play the winner of Monday's Onaway-Charlevoix contest.

In the Ellsworth District, the Loggers of Boyer Falls will be looking for their first win of the year when they play Alba at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

East Jordan coach Steve VanderHyde probably speaks for all of the coaches when he rates the five-team Onaway district "a toss-up."

Whatever team goes in there playing high is going to win it," he said.

Going by season records, Charlevoix (11-7), East Jordan (11-5) and Rogers City (10-6) would seem to be the favorites. Boyer City is 4-12, but has beaten East Jordan and come very close to Charlevoix and Rogers City. Onaway is 4-14, but the home court advantage will help the Cardinals.

In a strange quirk of fate, Boyer City and Rogers City will face each other twice in five days. The Ramblers journey to Rogers City for a make-up game to finish their regular season Friday. They also drew the Hurons as their first-round district opponents Tuesday.

Rambler Coach Russ Harvey isn't thrilled with the idea. "It's to neither team's advantage, so we're all equal," he said. "It's just the oddity of the draw of this tournament."

As of Monday, Boyer City was 3-9 in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference, while Rogers City was 6-6. The Hurons won an earlier meeting between the two 67-64.

The Ramblers were scheduled to play Grayling last Friday, but the game was canceled because of a flu outbreak in Grayling.

Harvey said he won't do anything special to get ready for Rogers City. "It's too late in the year for that," he said. Rogers City started the season strong, using superior rebounding and fewer turnovers to beat Boyer earlier, but the Hurons have faltered in recent weeks after losing the services of injured center Mark Pilarkoki.

When East Jordan plays Onaway or Charlevoix Wednesday it will be the first time they will have played either team this season.

The Red Devils scrimmaged Onaway before the season began, but as Coach VanderHyde points out, "A lot can change since then." The Cardinals have a good sized team, he recalls.

VanderHyde has scouted Charlevoix and he says the key to stopping the Rayders is stopping guard Pat Schmidt. Schmidt is on a hot streak, averaging more than 25 points per game in his last four outings.

The Red Devils are blessed with good balance, size, speed and depth. In many games this season, substitutes have come off the bench to score in double figures.

East Jordan's starting lineup has two senior guards -- Jeff Burch, the leading scorer with a 14.8 average, and Dan Spence, the playmaker.

Senior Duane Carpenter, the team's 6-4 center, is scoring 14 points a game. The forwards are both juniors -- 6-3 Duane Cutler, the team's leading rebounder and third leading scorer with an 11 point average, and 6-2 Tim Kraemer.

Top reserves 6-2 junior are forwards Don Trojanek and Kelly Looze, and guards Delbert Ingalls, Denny LaPeer and Dan Goebel.

Lack of depth hurts, but skiers end strong

BOYNE CITY - The high school team finished its season in style in the recent regional at Nub's Nob in Harbor Springs. The girls team, with just four skiers, finished seventh, while the boys were eighth. There were 18 schools in the regional.

Top individual performer for the Ramblers was junior Mike Neumann, who finished 10th out of 114 skiers. He was tenth in both the slalom and the giant slalom.

For the girls, Julie Dunlop finished 11th out of 103 skiers.

Traverse City's boys team won the regional, while the Petoskey girls finished first.

In addition to competing against good skiers, the Boyne team also had to contend with frigid weather. "It was 40 below out there," said Coach Kathy Rozycki.

"We had to watch the kids for signs of frostbite."

The competition was especially tough on the girls team. Competition rules allow a team to race six skiers and keep the best four scores.

But by the end of the season, the girls only had four skiers left, so couldn't throw out any scores. "When we had somebody disqualified, we were really in trouble," Rozycki said.

One skier moved out of the district and another, Linda Breidenstein, was injured.

"I'm real pleased that they hung in there under those odds," she said. "Those kids were out there practicing every day no matter what the weather was."

Rozycki is optimistic about next year's team, especially the boys, who lose just one skier, Mike Kessler. The other members included three freshmen, two sophomores and a junior.

"I think the boys the next two years will do exceptionally well," Rozycki said. She added that a middle school ski program might be started in an effort to get more young people, especially girls, interested in the sport.

Coach Rozycki this year was assisted by Bob Simpson, an instructor at Boyne Mountain.

Cagers end a perfect season

BOYNE CITY - Nobody's perfect, right? But once in a great while an athletic team will come close.

That's the way it was for Boyer City's ninth grade basketball team this year. The Ramblers finished their season last week with a 17-0 record.

But the finish wasn't easy. Boyne had to go into overtime to win its last game, 42-40, over a tough Grayling team. Leading scorers were Bob Christie with 15 points and Ken Wilson with 10.

Center Christie and forwards Wilson and John Tompkins were the team's leading scorers this season, according to Coach Van Greene. But he was quick to add, "The guards always came through in pretty good shape, too."

"There was no big-shot scorer all the time. They're a real good bunch of kids who play together real well."

The freshman team combined team play with aggressive man-to-man defense to win most games easily. The team played straight man-to-man, Green said, because, "That's the way you learn to play basketball. You can always learn to play zone later."

Greene said the goal of the freshman and junior varsity basketball programs isn't to win every game, but to "learn basic basketball. Everything in the basketball program is built to winning on the varsity level."

"Of course, it's always nice to win on any level."

Although the freshmen were undefeated this year, Greene warned that there is no guarantee they will walk over everyone throughout high school.

He said Charlevoix had four freshmen starters on its junior varsity team. Cheboygan and Grayling also have strong freshmen classes.

Greene said some of the other team schools' big men look like they might grow more than the Boyer City forwards and centers. But he feels the Rambler freshmen will continue to do well, using quickness and a good passing game.

"If all the teams develop at the same rate," Green said, "It should make for some tremendous basketball around here in their junior and senior years." "It should be very, very close."

Bank nips BRI

B&C Market stayed in first place, and the logjam in second place thinned out to two teams Sunday in the Tri-City Basketball League.

In the best game of the night, Northwestern State Bank stayed in second place by nipping Boyer River Inn, 60-59 in overtime. The BRI trailed by six points at halftime and four points after three quarters, but rallied to tie the score at 57-57 as time ran out. Al Looze poured in 27 points and Jeff Belford added 15 to pace the bank. Chuck Stanek and Terry Elzinga both had 13 points for the BRI.

B&C raised its second round record to 5-1 with an 86-50 win over Parrish Chevrolet. The league leaders jumped out to a 22-8 first quarter lead and coasted the rest of the way. Brad Upton collected 20 points to lead B&C, while Tim Hardy and Gary Noble both added 12. Ted Beyer had 27 points for Parrish, while brother Tom Beyer scored 10.

FBT Industries ran its record to 4-1 to stay tied with Northwestern State Bank for second place. FBT recovered from a 16-13 first quarter deficit to beat Stevens Concrete by a 95-70 margin. Five players scored in double figures for the winners, led by Larry Taylor with 30 points, and Jim Danbert and John Nachazel with 16 each. Bob Nemecek paced Stevens with 22 points, while Jim Baumann added 18 and Ken Doty had 16.

Sir Jack's continued to play well, knocking off East Jordan Iron Works, 103-98, thanks to a 41 point performance by Tim Crego and 33 points by Jeff Kruzel. Kevin Griffin and Steve VanderHyde paced the Iron Works with 37 and 36 points, respectively.

3-M Gas buried Charlevoix County State Bank, 102-63, as Terry Erber dumped in 25 points, Greg Grobaski added 21 and Bernie Kondrat chipped in 19. Rick Roberts led the bank with 25 points, and Larry Chew had 11.

THIS SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE: In Boyer City: 3-M vs. Stevens at 6 p.m., and Sir Jack's vs. BRI at 7:30. In East Jordan, B&C vs. Iron Works at 6, and Northwestern vs. FBT at 7:30. In Boyer Falls, County Bank vs. Parrish at 6.

Doubles champions Bill Dunham and Gary Boden. Boden was also the all-events champion for the second year in a row.

Boyne City News

Stepping out

Louie Schomberger really knows how to stay on top of things. The Consumers Power meter reader from Boyne City often uses these snowshoes in winter to get his job done. But when meters are buried by snow, not even Louie can get to them. When that happens, the company estimates the bills, which can cost you money later if the estimate is too low.

B&C Market to be sold; No big changes planned

BOYNE CITY - Local shoppers shouldn't expect any major changes when they go to the grocery store, even though B&C Market will be sold, according to one of the future owners.

The Boyne City store will have a new manager, but other than that there will be "no changes whatsoever," said Larry McNitt of Cheboygan, one of the new owners.

McNitt and four other major stockholders will buy the stores in Boyne City, Gaylord and Onaway this June from company founders Bob and Carol Lee, the company announced last week. One of the stockholders is Willard Gahn of Boyne City, a former manager of the local B&C store.

The Lees will retain control of the Cheboygan store, which is presently the corporation headquarters. The Lees started the grocery chain in 1957.

Employees say the Lees decided the time had come to liquidate some of their assets.

"Bill just wants to cut down some now and sell the three stores," Larry McNitt said.

Once the sale is completed in June, the Boyne City store will be managed by James Wandrie, another of the prospective owners. The other partners are Ronald Beatty and Gale Brown.

The present manager, Dave Dombroski, will take a job with the parent corporation back in Cheboygan. He came to Boyne City last spring.

The grocery store will continue to carry the same line of products, said McNitt, who presently is an executive vice-president for B&C.

But there will be one big change: a new name. The Cheboygan store will keep the name B&C, while the others will need a new one.

"We haven't come up with a name yet," laughed McNitt. "We'd better do that pretty soon."

McNitt said the purchase terms weren't finalized yet because an inventory must be taken to determine the chain's assets.

B&C is one of Boyne City's biggest industries, employing approximately 70 persons and generating property taxes of $28,204 a year, according to city hall records.

The store is the successor of H&T Superette, owned by John Hawkes and Fitch Tooley. The H&T was once where the Sears store is now. Tooley is now deceased, but Hawkes still owns the present B&C building and rents to the grocery store, even though he sold the business in 1967.

No strike talks set

The strike at Courter, Inc., Boyne City's biggest employer, entered its second week with no negotiations scheduled between management and striking workers.

All of Courter's 450 employees are on strike except management, engineers and a few non-union office workers.

"We haven't heard anything at all from the company yet," said union bargaining committee chairman Zeke Bronson. "We turned down their proposal and we figure they needed a counter-proposal."

Local management representative refused to comment, saying any statements on the strike would have to be approved by the home Courter's home office, the Bendix Corporation of Southfield.

Bronson and other strikers say the strike centers around cost of living raises and other money issues. The strikers say they want an increase over the 15 cents an hour cost of living raises they have received in past years.

But Bronson said the company's first offer didn't call for any cost of living increases at all. He said all employees deserve raises in line with the consumer price index, a national table that tells how much the cost of living has gone up.

Bronson said the union, a part of the United Auto Workers, is seeking elimination of what they perceive as an unfair salary structure, one that hurts those on the bottom rungs of the salary structure.

"We're below area industry even though we're recognized as probably the most complex industry in the area," Bronson said. Courter's makes precision aircraft instrument parts and starts most workers at $3.75 an hour.

In their strike headquarters across the street from the plant, the strikers have posted newspaper clippings documenting a $125,000 raise given to Bendix Chief Executive Officer William Agee, who now is paid $595,000 a year.

"And we haven't even kept up with the cost of living," Bronson said.

Courter's was the sight of a long, hard strike in 1966. But despite the disagreements over money, the strike so far has apparently caused little ill feeling between the two sides.

"We're getting all sorts of cooperation from the company," Bronson said. "They're not doing any production."

"I hear some of those foremen are getting a little worried wondering how long management will have them sitting around with nothing to do."

Unlike the strikers, if other employees are laid off, they would be eligible for regular unemployment compensation.

Mancelona beats cagers easily

MANCELONA - The Rambler basketball team has had shooting troubles all season, and it has cost Boyne City several games. Tuesday night's 64-49 loss to Mancelona was no exception.

The Ramblers made just 21 of 81 shots from the floor for 24 percent. It was the team's second worst shooting night of the year.

Mancelona made 44 percent of its shots.

Leading scorers for Boyne City were Dean Hicks with 12 and Tim Hartwick with 10.

The JV's fared better, beating Mancy 52-49. Jim Plachta led the way with 13 points.

"We were just flat-footed out there," Harvey said of the varsity. "And we couldn't hit our shots."

OLD FOOTBALL INJURY FLARES UP

Q. My husband's "old football injury" keeps flaring up in his back all the time. He's forty-five years old and has had back trouble since he played football in high school. He can go along and have no trouble for several months. Then one bright morning, he can't even reach over to tie his shoes. Once in a while it gets so bad he has to miss a day or two of work. Despite all of his trouble, he has no objection to our son going out for football this year in the fall. What can I do to convince my husband that football is not for our son either.

A. I would suggest that you leave your boy alone and let him play football if he wants to. It's bound to improve him physically as well as mentally and help him to prepare for the adult life he must face soon.

There are several ways to look at your husband's "old football injury".

1.) Your husband's problem may not have been caused at all, from playing high school football. After this many years, he may have forgotten some other slip or fall.

2.) If it were caused by football, proper chiropractic care at the time of injury might have corrected the condition, and he would have no trouble at all now.

3.) He should seek chiropractic help at once to see what can now be done to correct the problem.

Finally, if your son should suffer an injury while playing football, take him to a chiropractic physician immediately so that any problem can be corrected at once while he is still young.
